Re: EQ03-013 Safety Recall Follow-Up Report of August 5, 2003
(Sealco Commercial Vehicle Products, Inc. – Part Numbers 110700 and 110800)

Dear Mr. Person:

In response to your fax of August 5, 2003, to our legal counsel, Mr. Larry Cuculic, I am enclosing information that provides the VIN numbers and customer information for the trailers that were manufactured by Wabash National using either of the Sealco parts involved in this safety recall. Also enclosed is a report showing the customers who purchased these component parts through our Parts Division. If I can be of any further assistance, please don't hesitate to contact me directly.

Sincerely,

Sarah-Louise Kerney

EQ03-013 Safety Recall Follow-up Report Date: AUG -5 2003

The Office of Defects Investigation (ODI) is conducting a review of safety recall 02E-028, being performed by Sealco Commercial Vehicle Products, Inc. (SCVPI). This recall involves spring brake control valves, part numbers 110700 and 110800. The spring brake control valves, part number 110700 was manufactured beginning in March 1994 and ending March 2000 and part number 110800 was manufactured beginning September 1997 and ending March 2000. These valves were manufactured with a brass guide pin that is recessed in the top portion of the body of the valve and is held in place with a steel snap ring. The snap ring is held in place by a machined snap ring grove on the inside diameter of the top portion of the valve body. This accumulation of excess corrosion may compress the snap ring to the point where it can no longer contain the guide pin resulting in a failure of the air valve.

According to information provided by SCVPI, Wabash National, PL (Wabash) was identified as a motor vehicle manufacturer who purchased and/or was supplied the recall spring brake control valve and should have been notified by SCVPI of the safety recall. The purpose of this request is to ascertain the disposition of the recalled spring brake control valves that were acquired by Wabash and identify any motor vehicle that may contain this equipment.

Federal Regulation 49 CFR Part 573, "Defect and Noncompliance Reports," requires that a manufacturer provide the agency with a safety defect information report within 5 days after deciding that a safety defect exists in its motor vehicles and item of equipment. Part 573.3(f) states that "In the case of a defect or noncompliance decided to exist in original equipment installed in the vehicles of more than one manufacturer, compliance with Part 573.5 is required of the equipment manufacturer as to the equipment item, and of each vehicle manufacturer as to the vehicles in which the equipment has been installed". Additionally, Part 573.3(o) provides that for vehicles manufactured in two or more stages either of the manufacturers may satisfy the requirements. As of this date, we have not received notification of the above described defect from Wabash.

If Wabash does not agree with the decision made by SCVPI that the recalled spring brake control valves contain a safety defect and could have been installed in Wabash vehicles, then please provide an explanation for Wabash's position. If Wabash has not received any of these recalled spring brake control valves, please so state. If Wabash is not a vehicle manufacturer, please state the nature of its business and its relationship with SCVFI.

Your response, in writing or by FAX, is to be submitted to this office by August 22, 2003, referencing EQ03-013. If you have any questions, please contact Mrs. Barbara R. Cooke at (202) 366-6098.

02E-038 (3/11)

II. Identifying the Recall Population

3. Furnish the total number of vehicle equipment items recalled potentially containing the defect or noncompliance.

Model	Year	Number of Vehicle Equipment Items Potentially Involved
110700	1994	818
110700	1995	2,429
110700	1996	3,596
110700	1997	13,373
110700	1998	41,885
110700	1999	40,810
110700	2000	13,304
110800	1997	315
110800	1998	36,042
110800	1999	62,214
110800	2000	16,435

Total Number Potentially Affected by the Recall: 230,003

4. Furnish the approximate percentage of the total number of vehicle equipment items estimated to actually contain the defect or noncompliance: 100%

Identify and describe how the recall population was determined – in particular how the recall models were selected and the basis for the inclusive dates of manufacture:

All of the 110700 and 110800 Spring Brake Control Valves made from the beginning (March 1994 for the 110700 and September 1997 for the 110800) until the end of March 2000 were manufactured using the same cast body style which utilizes the recessed brass guide pin on top of the valve retained by a steel snap ring. The valve design for both these valves was changed to utilize a brass screw cap on top of the valve and all production from April 1, 2000 on used this new design. The quantities of these valves were determined from internal computer records.

III. Identifying the Defect or Noncompliance

5. Describe the defect or noncompliance. The description should address the nature and physical location of the defect or noncompliance. Illustrations should be provided as appropriate.

The defect is in the design of the top portion of the valve body. A brass guide pin fits down inside the die cast zinc body of the valve and is held in place by a steel snap ring. The snap ring expands into a snap ring grove machined about 1/8" down into the inside diameter of the body holding the guide pin in place. The result of this design is that there is a recessed area on the top of the valve about 1/8" deep and 15/16" in diameter. Most of these Spring Brake Control Valves are mounted with a threaded nipple directly to the air reservoir underneath the trailer. The recessed area allows for the accumulation of whatever water, dirt and/or chemicals are thrown up underneath the trailer. See photographs #1 and #2.

In the last several years, some municipalities have begun to use newer, highly corrosive ice control chemicals both before and after snowfalls to reduce the amount of ice and snow build up on the roads. Some of these chemicals, alone or in some combination, apparently may build up in the snap ring grove behind the snap ring over time. This accumulation of excess corrosion may compress the snap ring to the point where it can no longer contain the guide pin resulting in a failure of the air valve.

IV. Identifying the Chronology in Determining the Defect/Noncompliance

6. With respect to a defect, furnish a chronological summary (including dates) of all the principle events that were the basis for the determination of the defect. The summary should include, but not be limited to, the number of reports, accidents, injuries, fatalities, and warranty claims.

October 1999 – Sealco was contacted by Don Boyle of Consolidated Freightways who stated that one of their fleet maintenance customers, Emery Worldwide, had experienced a failure of seven of the #110700 Spring Brake Control Valves. They returned one valve for our inspection that was missing the top brass guide pin and steel snap ring. The valve was heavily corroded but without the missing parts Sealco engineers were unable to make a final determination as to the reason for failure but speculated that perhaps the zinc chromate plating of the valve body was sub standard.

Sealco sent their Regional Manager in the New York area to Emery Worldwide to inspect the other failed valves. The valves available for inspection were all heavily corroded and missing the guide pins and snap rings. The Maintenance Manager of this fleet informed us that new ice control chemicals were being used in their area and that they were corroding numerous items on their trailers that had never experienced problems in the past. We presumed that this was an isolated incident as it had never happened before.

February 2000 – Two more fleets, Howes & Howes and Interstate Brands, contact Sealco with complaints of snap ring failures on four valves. We requested that they return the failed valves as well as some of the same valves that had been in service a similar period of time but had not failed. The failed valves that were returned were heavily corroded and missing the guide pin and snap ring. The valves returned that were still operational were heavily corroded around the top guide pin / snap ring area.

Sealco engineers took actions to assure that the snap ring groves were being machined deep enough into the inside diameter of the valve body to hold the snap ring. The engineers speculated that the highly corrosive ice control chemicals were corroding the snap ring and/or valve body to the point of failure.

March 2000 – Three more fleets reported three more valve failures due to failure of the snap ring. Sealco's engineers decided that the new, highly corrosive ice control chemicals were building up behind the snap ring, compressing it and causing the snap ring to fail. A new top portion of the valve was designed to screw into the body and lay flat across the top thereby eliminating the recessed cup on the top of the valve, which would allow moisture and chemicals to accumulate.

April 2000 – The new body style with the screw cap top was put into production at the beginning of the month (see photographs #3 and #4). Four more valves of the old design were reported to have failed.

May 2000 – Only one valve of the old design is reported to have failed.

June – November 2000 – No failures of the valves are reported. Sealco incorrectly believed that the problem was a short term, isolated situation and had disappeared.

December 2000 – April 2001 – Thirteen fleets report twenty failures of valves of the old design due to excessive corrosion during the winter months. All incidents of failure took place with the trailer at rest in the parking lot when air pressure was initially applied to the air brake system and therefore presented no safety concerns.

May 2001 – December 2001 – No failures of the valves are reported.

January 2002 – One on the road incident of failure is reported of an old design valve.

February 2002 – Seven incidents of failure are reported (one in January of 2000), two of which occurred on the road.

March 2002 – Sealco calls NHTSA and Transport Canada to explain their safety concerns about the subject valves now that it appears that they may continue to fail in on the road conditions and seek their advice. Sealco sends both agencies a letter explaining the situation and information about some of the new, highly corrosive ice control chemicals. NHTSA faxes Sealco a memo asking for more information.

April 2002 – Sealco responds to NHTSA's fax with a letter answering their questions and providing photographs of a mechanical prevention device to the potential problem. Sealco is pleased with the simplicity and ease of installation of the proposed solution.

Sealco reviews their response and proposed prevention device with NHTSA who appears to be favorable to the proposal. NHTSA indicates that they believe that the situation probably constitutes a vehicle equipment safety defect and requests that Sealco submit a formal Part 573 Defect and Noncompliance report.

Sealco sends a letter to Transport Canada outlining similar information that was sent to NHTSA.

Sealco submits this formal Part 573 defect and Noncompliance report to NHTSA.

8. Furnish a description of the manufacturer's remedy for the defect or noncompliance. Clearly describe the differences between the recall condition and the remedy.

Sealco has developed a mechanical prevention device consisting of an e-coated steel u-bolt, machined brass retainer, drilled brass bracket plate and two locknuts which will bolt over and hold in place the guide pin and snap ring. Once this device is installed on the subject valves the valves cannot fall on the topside due to excessive corrosion or for any other mechanical reason. See photographs #5, #6 and #7.

Clearly describe the distinguishing characteristics of the remedy component/assembly versus the recalled component/assembly.

The brass retainer component of the mechanical prevention device is machined so that it fits down in the inside diameter of the top portion of the valve body with the bottom of the brass retainer against the top of the brass guide pin and the outside machined edges of the brass retainer being against the top of the snap ring. While the two outside diameters of the brass retainer allow for the retainer to fit inside the valve body and snap ring, it is large enough to not allow the snap ring to compress out of the machined snap ring grove. The brass retainer sits high enough above the top of the valve body to allow the brass bracket plate to fit smoothly over the top of the retainer without making contact with the valve body. The e-coating on the steel u-bolt will provide a strong barrier to the corrosive chemicals and the plated locking nuts will assure that the finished assembly will not come undone due to road vibrations. See photographs #5, #6 and #7.

Identify and describe how and when the recall condition was corrected in production. If the production remedy was identical to the recall remedy in the field, so state. If the product was discontinued, so state.

The subject valves were redesigned to eliminate the snap ring at the top of the valve body by having the brass guide pin made larger on the top so that it could be threaded and screw into the top of the valve body. At the same time the top of the new threaded guide pin was made large enough to cover the top of the valve body eliminating any area where contaminates might accumulate. Elimination of the snap ring and any area that could accumulate contaminates removes the possibility of the subject valves failing in this area due to the excessive corrosion we have experienced. These changes were made and implemented into all production of the subject valves on April 1, 2000.

VI. Recall Schedule

Furnish a schedule or agenda (with specific dates) for notification to other manufacturers, dealers/retailers, and purchasers. Please identify any foreseeable problems with implementing the recall.

By May 1, 2002, all U.S. companies who have purchased the subject valves from Sealco (both trailer OEMs and aftermarket) will be sent a letter explaining the potential safety defect in the design of the subject valves and how the design may be affected by corrosion. Sealco will request that the trailer OEM customers either provide Sealco with a database of their customers who have purchased trailers containing the subject valves or contact the customers themselves.

Sealco will request that the aftermarket customers return any old design subject valves they have in stock and Sealco will replace them at no charge with the new design valves. Sealco does not anticipate that there will be very many of the old design subject valves in inventory in the aftermarket as all shipments of the valves from April of 2000 have been of the new design.

By July 1, 2002, Sealco should have received the end use fleet customer information from the trailer OEMs and Sealco will have written them a letter explaining the potential safety defect in the design of the subject valves and the mechanical prevention device that Sealco will make available at no charge to them for installation on their trailers. Sealco will continue to contact OEMs who have not provided this information and will report this information to NHTSA.

Sealco will request that the end use fleets submit a no charge purchase order for the Prevention Kits and will request that the fleets report back to Sealco on which trailers they have installed the Prevention Kits by VIN. Sealco will ship the Prevention Kits to the fleets to the specific attention of the individual in charge of the management of the installation of the Prevention Kits. Sealco will record the VINs of the trailers that have had the Prevention Kits installed and report this information back to NHTSA.

By September 1, 2002, Sealco should have been able to provide Prevention Kits to all of the end use fleet customers who have the old design subject valves on their trailers.

There are three areas of potential difficulty we see in implementing this campaign. First, we may have difficulty convincing some of the OEM customers to supply Sealco with a database of their fleet customers who have purchased trailers with the subject valves. Secondly, it may be difficult to convince the end use fleets to provide Sealco with information such as how many Prevention Kits they require and on what trailers they have installed the Prevention Kits. Finally, it may be difficult to motivate the end use fleets to actually install the Prevention Kits even after we have determined the number required and shipped them to the OEM.

These concerns will require Sealco to be continually in contact with the end use fleets in order to satisfy us that the Prevention Kits have been properly installed. Sealco may from time to time find it necessary to solicit NHTSA's assistance in motivating the parties to install the Prevention Kits.

VII. Recall Communications

9. Furnish a final copy of all notices, bulletins, and other communications that relate directly to the defect or noncompliance and which are sent to more manufacturer, distributor or purchaser. This includes all communications concerning this recall from the time your company determines the defect or noncompliance condition on, not just the initial notification. A DRAFT copy of the notification documents SHOULD BE submitted to this office by telefax (FAX: 202-366-7882) for review prior to mailing.

Safety Defect and Noncompliance Report Guide for Vehicles

PART 573 Defect and Noncompliance Responsibility and Reports[1]

On _____, 2003, _____ [MFR] decided that (a defect which relates to motor vehicle safety)(a noncompliance with Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. _____) exits in the motor vehicles listed below, and is furnishing notification to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration in accordance with 49 CFR Part 573 Defect and Noncompliance Responsibility and Reports.

Date this report was prepared:

Furnish the manufacturer's identification code for this recall (if applicable): _____

1. Identify the full corporate name of the fabricating manufacturer of the vehicle being recalled. If the recalled vehicle is imported, provide the name and mailing address of the designated agent as prescribed by 49 U.S.C. §30164.

Identify the corporate official, by name and title, whom the agency should contact with respect to this recall.

Identify the approximate percentage of the production of all the recalled models manufactured by your company between the inclusive dates of manufacture provided above, that the recalled model population represents. For example, if the recall involved Widgets equipped with certain items of equipment from January 1, 1996 through April 1, 1997, then what was the percentage of the recalled Widgets of all Widgets manufactured during that time period.

II. Identify the Recall Population

3. Furnish the total number of vehicles recalled potentially containing the defect or noncompliance.

Model	Year	Number of Vehicles Potentially Involved

Total Number Potentially Affected by the Recall: _____

4. Furnish the approximate percentage of the total number of vehicles estimated to actually contain the defect or noncompliance:

Identify and describe how the recall population was determined--in particular how the recalled models were selected and the basis for the beginning and final dates of manufacture of the recalled vehicles:

III. Describe the Defect or Noncompliance

5. Describe the defect or noncompliance. The description should address the nature and physical location of the defect or noncompliance. Illustrations should be provided as appropriate.

Describe the cause(s) of the defect or noncompliance condition.

Describe the consequence(s) of the defect or noncompliance condition.

Identify any warning which can (a) precede or (b) occur.

If the defect or noncompliance is in a component or assembly purchased from a supplier, identify the supplier by corporate name and address.

Identify the name and title of the chief executive officer or knowledgeable representative of the supplier:

IV. Provide the Chronology in Determining the Defect/Noncompliance

If the recall is for a defect, complete item 6, otherwise item 7.

6. With respect to a defect, furnish a chronological summary (including dates) of all the principle events that were the basis for the determination of the defect. The summary should include, but not be limited to, the number of reports, accidents, injuries, fatalities, and warranty claims.

7. With respect to a noncompliance, identify and provide the test results or other data (in chronological order and including dates) on which the noncompliance was determined.

V. Identify the Remedy

8. A description of the manufacturer's program for remedying the defect or noncompliance. This program shall include a plan for reimbursing an owner or purchaser who incurred costs to obtain a remedy for the problem addressed by the recall within a reasonable time in advance of the manufacturer's notification of owners, purchasers and dealers, in accordance with §573.13 of this part. A manufacturer's plan may incorporate by reference a general reimbursement plan it previously submitted to NHTSA, together with information specific to the individual recall. Information required by §573.13 that is not in a general reimbursement plan shall be submitted in the manufacturer's report to NHTSA under this section. If a manufacturer submits one or more general reimbursement plans, the manufacturer shall update each plan every two years, in accordance with §573.13. The manufacturer's remedy program and reimbursement plans will be available for inspection by the public at NHTSA headquarters.

9. Furnish a description of the manufacturer's remedy for the defect or noncompliance. Clearly describe the differences between the recall condition and the remedy.

Clearly describe the distinguishing characteristics of the remedy component/assembly versus the recalled component/assembly.

Identify and describe how and when the recall condition was corrected in production. If the production remedy was identical to the recall remedy in the field, so state. If the product was discontinued, so state.

VI. Identify the Recall Schedule

10. Furnish a schedule or agenda (with specific dates) for notification to other manufacturers, dealers/retailers, and purchasers. Please, identify any foreseeable problems with implementing the recall.

VII. Furnish Recall Communications

11. Furnish a final copy of all notices, bulletins, and other communications that relate directly to the defect or noncompliance and which are sent to more than one manufacturer, distributor, or purchaser. This includes all communications (including both original and follow-up) concerning this recall from the time your company determines the defect or noncompliance condition on, not just the initial notification. A DRAFT copy of the notification documents should be submitted to this office by Fax (202-366-7882) for review prior to mailing.

Note that these documents are to be submitted separately from those provided in accordance with Part 579.5 requirements.
