Repair Procedures

- Jet Dealers which will perform the repairs will be determined by strategic location throughout the United States.
 - The repair training will take place at Jet Company and/or at the Repairing Dealers' location for all who will do the repairs.
- Owners will be notified of the service date.
 - A hardness test will be conducted to determine if the top rail is defective.
 - If a defect is determined, an aluminum angle extrusion will be attached to the top and inside of each top rail.
 - The extrusion will be hucked (riveted) permanently to the existing top rail.
