RE: Multi-Model Airbag Inflator Safety Recall and Safety Improvement Campaign PARTS UPDATE

Tomorrow, April 14, 2015, American Honda will begin to introduce new and different parts to support the various driver's airbag inflator safety recall and safety improvement campaign repairs. The service bulletins supporting the driver's campaigns and recalls have been revised with updated procedures detailing the installation procedure change points. As new passenger airbag inflators become available, the bulletins supporting the passenger airbag inflator campaigns will be updated as well.

On or after April 14, 2015, you may receive a different part number than you ordered, and the inflator shape and appearance may be different from the inflators currently available. As a result, you will need to refer to the revised installation instructions available in the respective service bulletin for additional procedures related to these new inflators. Make sure you review the most recent service bulletin available for installation instructions and model applications, which inflators apply, and what your dealership can expect to receive when ordering parts.

Subsequent to this, additional inflators will be made available for both the driver's and passenger's airbags, and the relevant bulletins will be revised again to reflect the additional parts and procedures. When these changes occur, dealers will again be notified via iN message.

The following bulletins are affected by this initial revision:

08-093
10-039
14-045
15-022

The following bulletins will be affected by similar revisions in the near future:

13-034
14-040
14-046
14-070

As always, be sure to check VIN status inquiry on all vehicles that arrive on your service drive to determine if any outstanding safety recall or other campaign repairs apply.
